China, Hong Kong, Singapore : What's new in the Asian arbitration landscape ?

Alexis MOURRE, MGC Arbitration, Partner
Anne SEVERIN, DS AVOCATS, Partner
Olivier MONANGE, DS AVOCATS, Partner

Arbitration has grown up quickly in Asia these last years. Asian related arbitration cases are more and more seating in Asia, in places like Hong Kong or Singapore. China is progressively aligning on international arbitration standards and opening to foreign arbitration. Enforcement of awards is gaining ground.

What does the future hold for arbitration in Asia? Will China fully endorse international standards and open its regulatory framework? To what effects for global and regional institutions? How will Hong Kong redefine itself in a changing landscape? Will Singapore continue to strive as a fast-growing, dynamic and innovative seat? Are any other places of arbitration emerging in Asia? Are International courts changing the marketplace?

This panel will explore the challenges that will redefine international arbitration as we know it today in Asia and beyond.
